There are major changes happening to the Ofsted Framework this Summer which will require primary leaders and classroom teachers to have a clear curriculum vision for the subject alongside the core subjects they currently deliver. Primary schools will need to show that there is a breadth of learning available on the curriculum that deepens pupil learning and enriches their lives. Subjects outside of the core (art, drama, PE, D&T) will gain greater emphasis within the new framework.

The D&T Association is adjusting its membership offer in order to support Primary schools to address these changes and help ensure schools deliver excellent primary design and technology. ▶

Guidance and Support

Supporting D&T in Primary School

Up to 20 teachers join for an annual fee of just £88

You may have only touched on D&T in the past but will understand that it needs to be taught in a much more robust and creative manner.

Primary membership: by joining as a Primary School member, your whole school will benefit from advice, support and guidance from curriculum experts within the D&T Association. You will be part of the UK's expert authority for design and technology, which represents you to governing bodies and authorities such as DfE, Ofsted, Awarding Organisations and Government. You will receive high quality subject magazines and, alongside all the discounts on CPD and other educational resources, you will receive our best selling primary resource, Projects on a Page.* ▶
